Clements Worldwide Recognized in IIABA's Best Practices Study for the Eighth Consecutive Year

With Focus on Service & Innovation Clements Worldwide Retains its Best Practices Status

November 24, 2015 (Washington, DC) – Clements Worldwide, a leading provider of global insurance solutions since 1947, was named a “Best Practices Agency” by the Independent Insurance Agents & Brokers of America (IIABA or the Big “I”) “Best Practices” Study Group for the eighth consecutive year based on a study of more than 1,100 independent agencies throughout the U.S.

Best practices organizations are known for their innovation and commitment to meeting evolving client needs. This best practices award is a reflection of Clements commitment to offering new products to the international market to protect assets abroad, such as its high-limit disability launch and its expanded evacuation solution to cover disaster, security, or epidemics, as well as its commitment to customer servicing through its unique claims concierge department. Clements offers over 60 products with 15 proprietary brands ensuring the best solutions for your high-risk needs.

“Our staff in Washington, London, and Dubai all strive to provide customized and cost efficient solutions to our commercial and personal line customers to protect their assets abroad,” said Chris Beck, President of Clements Worldwide. “We use these opportunities to benchmark our improvements against other agencies and to demonstrate our commitment to providing exemplary service in every client interaction.”

As Clements, which is also an A+ designated BBB agency, continues to expand its product line and geographic scope, continued diligence is required to ensure it maintains its family-owned commitment to customers.

“As we continue to expand our offices, we are also committed to providing the same service that our family-owned company has always offered,” said Beck. “Once again Clements has demonstrated that we are meeting this goal with this renewed distinction from IIABA for the eighth year.”
